THE KNOLL

1946

STATE TEACHERS COLLEGE

LOWELL, MASSACHUSETTS

DEDICATION

In our Sophomore year, Miss Neilson, we were very happy to welcome you to our college as a member of the faculty. At that time you so willingly and graciously undertook the task of acting as advisor to our class, that ever since you have occupied a very deep place in our affections.

Your kindness and understanding have helped us through many a difficulty. In the gym, on the field, at class meetings, and at social gatherings your genuine interest and wise guidance have still further endeared you to us.

You have ever instilled in us high ideals of womanhood. During the confused war-time school years, when we sorely needed counsel and direction, you were always by our side to ease the tensions and to aid us in making satisfactory decisions.

We thank you, Miss Neilson, for having been our advisor, our teacher, and above all, our true friend.

MISS ELIZABETH A. NEILSON

*Sincere wishes for your success, philosopher, and may your future
be very happy.*

Elizabeth A. Neilson

PROLOGUE

For four years the theme of our lives at Lowell Teachers College has been music. The moment we stepped inside the door, the sound of music came to our ears. It may not have been the "Concerto in F minor" by Rachmaninoff, but it was music.

Since that first year at college, we have learned much about people, about teaching, and above all — about music. We now realize that music is life — a life of harmony, melody, and rhythm. We have listened to the jazz of our day floating down from the gym or up from the locker rooms; to the hymns of our age coming from reverent lips during the chapel hour; and to the songs chosen by the college as "our" songs sung by the enthusiastic students.

At any time of day we could hear a melody from an aria, a rhapsody, or a concerto, or the strains of a chorus number. We have loved every bit of the music to which we have listened or contributed. It has broadened our outlook, and it has been the source of fine friendships, happy memories, and much real joy.

OUR THEME

In Praise to Our College

Our voices are raised in praise to our college, to our president, to our dean, and to the other members of our faculty.

School Days

"Dear old golden rule days" bring memories of our studies at Lowell Teachers College and of the happy weeks of our practice-teaching—with ne'er a sign of a hickory stick.

Fun and Frolic

We are proud of our Athletic Association, the best in all the land. We are also keenly interested in our College Clubs, for they have afforded us many hours of enjoyment during our college years.

We Are the Pride

Our years in Lowell Teachers College have meant so much to us that we want to share with everyone some of the occasions that were most enjoyable and best-remembered.

Auld Lang Syne

"Should auld acquaintance be forgot," this yearbook will recall the friends, the joys, and the pleasures we have known in our years at Lowell Teachers College.

In Praise to Our College

*Raise high your voices in praise to our college,
Fearless she took us with hearts deep and full,
In faith she led us with vision complete,
And kindly watched our faltering feet.*

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

It gives me great pleasure to extend congratulations and good wishes to the class of 1946 as you approach the completion of your work at Lowell Teachers College.

You have chosen a profession which is second to none in the service you may render to your country and to mankind. That you may render such service most effectively you should keep in mind at all times that you are moulding men and women for future civilization.

In your stay with us you have shown these qualities of mind and heart which are sorely needed in our world today and it is my earnest prayer that you will endeavor to foster and protect in every way the spiritual values upon which our society rests. As teachers you will share the responsibility of parents and the church in training the citizens of tomorrow in the virtues of honesty, integrity, tolerance and faith in the democratic way of life which we all so cherish.

May the future bring you all success and happiness.

JAMES DUGAN

MARGUERITE L. GOURVILLE

Perhaps at no time in history has the need for teachers with vision been so great. At no time has there been such a demand for intellectual and emotional stability.

The pioneers asked for no security when they went out to conquer new lands. They built security for themselves. There are new frontiers to develop in the art of living happily with other people. When we all realize the importance of every man and woman in this great fraternity, the new day will dawn.

In the meantime there is work to be done and you, the graduates of nineteen hundred and forty-six are going to help to do it. We, in the teaching profession anxiously await your coming.

MARGUERITE L. GOURVILLE

Keep that smile and even disposition Mary and life will be good to you —

SARAH E. LOVELL

JOSEPHINE W. CHUTE

There are many teachers who are gifted in guiding youth. Foremost among them are Miss Lovell and Miss Chute, who will live long in the hearts of all the students.

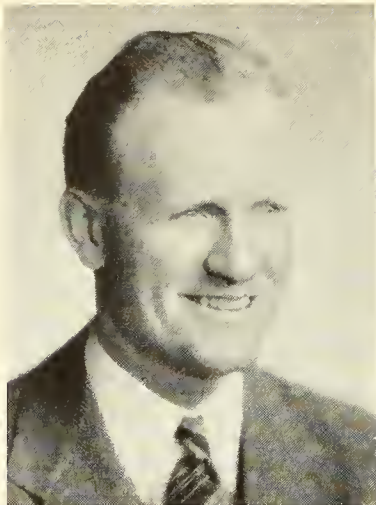

We call them "inspired teachers" because of their unfailing tact, their infinite patience, their rich store of knowledge, and their sympathetic understanding of youth. These are your qualities, Miss Lovell, Miss Chute.

The quality about you which first impressed us was serenity. We often wondered if anything could ruffle the calm of your manner. You were always kind to us, and tolerant of our mistakes. If, at any time, our thoughtless exuberance annoyed you, never did you reveal that annoyance to us.

We thank you, our respected and beloved teachers, for your advice and assistance . . . assistance which will help us . . . in the words of our college song . . . "To build our lives with glowing faith."

This year the League has sponsored a tea in honor of our new faculty member, Miss Mary O'Rourke, a Senior mothers' tea, a fathers' night, a penny fair, and a spring formal.

At council meetings, all student problems come to light, and with the guidance of our dean and advisor, Miss Marguerite Gourville, find a satisfactory solution.

Our Classes

Practice School

People have always asked us, "Why did you want to become a teacher?" If we were not sure of the answer before our practice teaching, we are now.

There is something about the questioning look on a child's face, the glint of mischief in a boy's eye, the eager quest for knowledge in a youngster's mien which makes teaching a pleasurable job. The primary grades offer a variety of experiences.

Have you ever told the story of how a tiny, tiny seed grows into a beautiful rose and seen "children's faces looking up holding wonder like a cup"? Have you ever caught from the voices of children the joy with which they sing their little songs? Have you ever heard the laughter of children behind you, turned around with a severe look, only to discover that you have spelled a word incorrectly? If you have been able to laugh with the youngsters and really mean it—you know why you wanted to be a teacher.

Fun and Frolic

Some think the world is made for fun and frolic,

And so do I!

And so do I!

May you be successful in your career —
 and may you be happy —
 always playing sports you're in love with.

Athletic Association

May, may you have success
 and happiness always.
 Kay Em

The Athletic Association plays a vital role in our college life. Every student is a member. The Athletic Association Board, elected annually from the student body and by the students themselves, organizes the recreational and social activities. Through the effort of this board, with the capable guidance of their advisor, Miss Neilson, the students are offered a wide selection of sports—field hockey, tennis, basketball, badminton, bowling, archery, horseback riding, tenniquoit, and softball.

Army and Navy Day in hockey and basketball are always eagerly anticipated. Two teams composed of those girls who actively participated in that sport, are chosen to meet in competition. Everyone is assured an exciting game.

The Athletic Association plans Alumnae Day on which former students are invited to compete with the present students in sports. Inter-collegiate games are held frequently. Several parties, dances, and sports nights are sponsored by the organization.

The annual activities terminate with a formal banquet where awards are presented and an evening of festivity closes a memorable year.

Dance Club

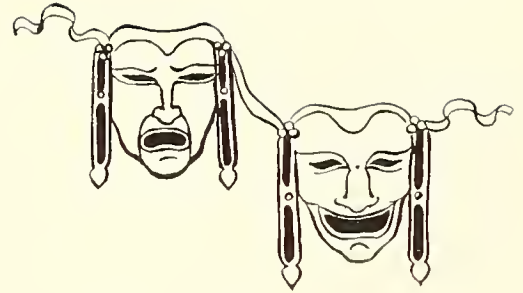

Creative self-expression: That is what is sought in the gym every Tuesday afternoon when members of the Modern Dance Club gather together. Dressed alike in black leotards, they learn to express in outward movement, and in beautiful individual and group patterns the feeling aroused in them by the rhythm of the music. At one movement it may be a stirring march, and then, perhaps, a lilting waltz, a passage of intricate syncopation, or a lively polka.

It is not necessary to have a background of training in the art of the dance in order to participate in this activity. Any girl who is capable of feeling rhythm, and who desires to express that feeling is welcomed as a member, and she may become a real addition to the Dance Club.

For the club members, the joy of the activity and its stimulating development are sources of inspiration.

Dramatic Club

The 1946 Dramatic Club of Lowell Teachers College was conducted according to the highest tradition of the organization. Miss A. Florence Kirby, Instructor in Drama, was director of the group.

The club presented "Shubert Alley," a play in seven scenes, written by the modern author, Mel Dinelli. The clever performance of this drama was given a favorable reception by the entire school.

An important achievement of the 1946 Club was its success in being accepted into the Alpha Psi Omega, a national honorary dramatic society. With the membership, the club was awarded the letters "Iota Sigma." Lowell Teachers College is the second Massachusetts Teachers College to join this fraternity.

Thus the 1946 Dramatic Club has brought distinction to the college.

Glee Club

This year members of our "Solfegg Club," under the direction of Miss Wilson, are enjoying a program of varied activities.

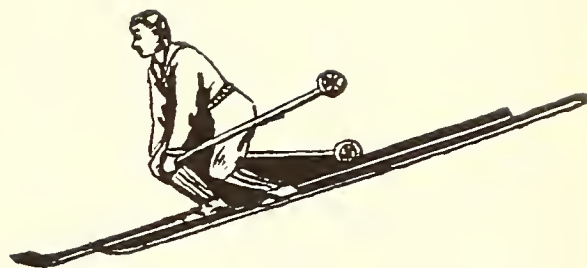

At our music appreciation meetings, we discussed composers, analyzed compositions, and sang selections written in Italian, in German, or in French.

Our first social affair was a "Musical Tea," so-called because the initial of each of the refreshments served must be one of letters composing the words: "Musical Tea." For instance, "m" would represent milk, "u" would be Unceda biscuits, etc. After the refreshments, we sang songs and played musical games. The tea was pronounced a success by all those who were present.

We are hoping to be able to attend later on...concerts and...musicals in Boston. And for April we have made definite plans to attend one performance of the Opera.

Outing Club

Under the pale moon and twinkling stars of an autumn night, a group of college girls sang as they rode home in a wagon filled with fresh hay. Those girls were the members of our "Outing Club" and that was the way our first outing ended.

Our second trip, the greatest event of the year, occurred on a mid-winter day, as warmly-clad and well-equipped girls boarded a snow train for North Conway, New Hampshire. Tobogganing down the long white hills, dancing in the cozy little Rumpus Room, skating to Strauss waltzes, and skiing down snow-covered slopes all together made an idyllic mountain week-end.

Gayety and laughter are keynotes of our organization, which enjoys such varied pastimes as bowling, roller skating, banquets and theatre parties, all under the capable leadership of our adviser, Miss Neilson.

Music Majors

The return of two of our veterans, former music students, augmented our Choir and made it possible for us to sing as a madrigal group. Our repertoire was varied. It was composed of folk-songs, madrigals, spirituals, and carols, both with and without accompaniment.

During the year, we sang for many organizations: Superintendents' conferences, Lenten Services, Teachers Colleges, and for several clubs and societies in and about Lowell.

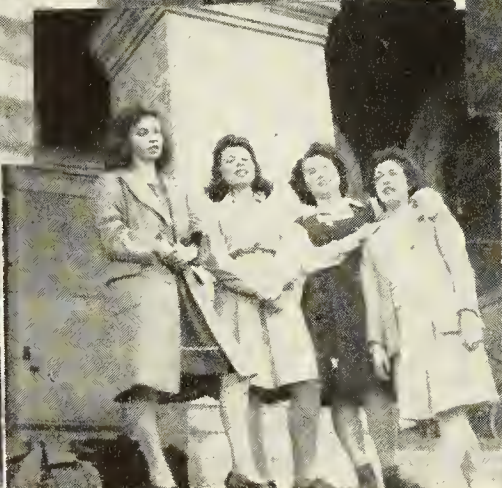

From the skillful conducting and friendly counsel of Miss Pierce, our director, the Choir has gained pleasure and happiness which will always remain with us as a pleasant memory of Lowell Teachers College.

"That's a lulu—You like that, huh—You bet,—Oh brother"... "After all, it is our Yearbook"...

SHARPS, FLATS

A collage of black and white photographs from the 1940s, featuring various groups of young people in formal and casual attire, including graduation gowns, military uniforms, and social gatherings. The photos are arranged in a grid-like fashion, with some overlapping. The subjects are primarily young men and women, likely students, captured in various social and academic contexts. The clothing is characteristic of the mid-20th century, with men in suits or military uniforms and women in dresses, blouses, and skirts. The settings range from formal indoor environments to outdoor scenes with trees and foliage. The overall tone is nostalgic and celebratory, capturing moments of youth and achievement.
